

Approximating transport with forward, backward and second-hand particles

Martin Campos Pinto¹

¹*Laboratoire JL Lions CNRS & UPMC, Paris, France*

In this talk I will report on a recent method to denoise particle-in-cell solutions. The method combines two techniques: the first one is the Forward-Backward Lagrangian (FBL) scheme that computes accurate grid densities based on a reconstructed backward flow. The second one is an optimization algorithm that moves the particles to better fit the FBL grid density.